The International yacht race, for the Queen's cup, came off to-day. The ourse was from off New York to the Yacht Club house at Stapleton, Staten Island, past Coney Island point, the Southwest Spit, past Sandy Hook, around light ship and return, a distance of about forty miles. A start was made at 11:31. The Cambria, which had been given the choice of position, unfortunately for her took it close under the island. The breeze came from the southwest, instead of westward, as her commander, Captain Comstock, had expected, and sae the to the leeward of the whole fleet and soon a mile behind the tearling yacht. At the Comstock, had expected, and she was the leading yacht. At the lowed by the America, Idler, Silvie, Dauntless, Phantom, etc., Cambria being the thirteenth. Outside Sandy Hook, the breeze slackened about half, and at the light-ship the follow-ing was the order: Magic, Idler, Dauntless, America, Silvie, Phantom, Cambria, etc. After rounding the light-ship, Cambria sent up her fore gaff top sails, and almost imme-diately a gust of wind from southforetop mast. She, however, kept on, night and passed through the Spit. On returning, in line, the home stake boat was reached in following order: Magic, 3 o'clock, 33 min. 54 sec.; Dauntless, 3 o'clock, 35 min. 27 sec.; Idler, 3 o'clock, 3 min. 23 sec.; America, 3 o'clock, 47 min. 54 sec.; Phantom, 3 o'clock, 55 min. 3 sec.; Madgie, 3 o'clock, 55 min. 5 sec.; Silvie, 3 o'clock, 55 min. 12 sec.; Cambria, 4 o'clock; Fleetwing, 4 o'clock, 2 min. 45 sec.; Haleyon, o'clock, 3 min. 8 sec.; Tarolinta, o'clock, 10 min.; Madeline, 4 o'clock 14 min. 46 sec.; Calypso, 4 o'clock, 1 min. 29 sec.; Widgeon, 4 o'clock, min. 30 sec.; Rambler, 4 o'clock, 17 min. 35 sec. BERLIN, August 8 .- General Steinmetz telegraphs the following par-ticulars of the contest between Von Goben and the French forces under General Froissard: "The fight was opened on the outside by the fourteenth division, which was subsequently reinforced by artillery and cavalry. A flerce and bloody struggle raged along the line between saarbruck and Forbach, lasting till night. The hights of Splechten were carried at the point of the bayonet, and the enemy was thrown back on Forbach. Meanwhile, our fifteenth division had advanced from Veredlingra and reached Forbach at nightfall, when the broken divisions of the French army were being driven upon that point. Here the baggage of two divisions and many prisoners were taken. The King on his arrival at Mayence called a council of war, and urged that the sooner the existing action be began the better, and pressed an advance. His opinion was adopted, and rders were telegraphed to attack the French out-posts in the neighborhood of Loudon and Weissenberg. A Prussian force, composed of the second line regiments and one regiment of Bayarian troops and some artillery, logether about nine thousand, drove the French before them into Weissen berg. The artillery was then brought up, and opened fire on the fortifications of the town. The town soon caught fire, and seeing this, there was some confusion among the French troops. The Prussians could no longer be restrained by their officers, who were anxlous to reduce the town by cannonade, and the soldiers rushed forward with bayonets and surprised the French, who were not expecting an infantry attack for nours to come were barricading and entrenching. The Prussians took 800 prisoners and the town. The greatest enthusiasm prevails here; there is an immense crowd about the palace waiting to cheer the King.
